INVESTIGATION OF UTILITIES TO BE PRIME INTEREST

Assembly Resumes Sessions
Tonight With Half of Probe Team

21 BILLS ARE READY

Senate Group to Ask for Extension of Time to Complete Work

By Robert F. Gorman
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Mar. 9.—Pennsylvania's General Assembly tonight will resume sessions with but one-half the legislative probe team — the Senate squad—working, but with the public utilities investigations still overshadowing all else before the Legislature.
Though the Senate has thirteen bills
ready for final passage and the House has eight on third reading, indications today were that interest would center on measures carrying appropriations for the investigating committees in both branches.

The House Probe Committee tonight will ask an appropriation of $25,000 to carry on its work. The bill will probably be introduced by Rep. Turner, Delaware. If the measure moves forward, it is expected the Senate Committee will make a similar request.
Thus far, both committees have been working without any funds provided and it seemed probable none would be made available for the Senate probers, who are working without the sympathy of the administration.

Earlier in the session, Turner offered a resolution pledging the aid of the House to the Senate body in its probe and providing for an appropriation for the work, but administration forces in the lower chamber voted it down.

Rep. D. Glenn Moore, Washington,
chairman of the House investigating committee, is understood to be anxious for passage of the bill providing an appropriation for the probe and in view of that fact, it seemed likely the Senate would receive a concession in the way of funds or retaliation by "picking" the house measure.

The Senate probe body tonight will ask for an extension of time in which

Another Drunken Driver Arrested by Local Police

Another drunken driver was picked up on the streets here this morning at 2:20 o'clock by the police. This is the second drunken driver arrested during the early morning by Officers Nichols and Ferry in the past 36 hours.

This morning Officers Ferry and Nichols were patrolling in the Harriman section and were driving in the police car along Pond street. Their attention was attracted by a car approaching them which swerved to the left hand side of the road and was coming directly toward the police car.
The driver changed his mind, however,
and turned out Wilson avenue.

The police followed the machine
along Wilson avenue and when McKinley street was reached the officers were satisfied that the operator was intoxicated. He was placed under arrest and gave his name as Thomas DeBosky, 2018 E. Tioga street, East Philadelphia.

DeBosky was placed under arrest
and taken before a physician who pronounced him intoxicated.

Early Saturday morning Walter Straw, Edgely, was driving his machine while intoxicated and crashed into the police car at Beaver and Prospect streets.

WESTERN END OF STATE IN GRIP OF BLIZZARD

Tail End of the Storm That Wreaked Havoc Is Sweeping Eastward

LIKELY TO BLOW OUT

By International News Service

King Winter, accompanied by his satellites of blustering snow flurries, lowering temperatures and whistling gales, moved in on Pennsylvania in dead earnest today as the tail end of a blizzard that wreaked havoc in the West swept eastward and beyond the Alleghenies.

Western Pennsylvania was especially hard hit. Snow flurries, swept along like whirling dervishes by high winds, blinding motorists in the highways and made driving conditions extremely hazardous.

Motor vehicles skidded and slithered about the slippery streets of cities in the Pittsburgh district. No fatal traffic accidents, directly attributable to the snowfall, were reported.

Roads were reported icy and snow-covered throughout the entire Western Pennsylvania district. The northwestern counties were reported shrouded
in a mantle of snow.

Clearing skies and colder temperatures prevailed over the eastern section of the State and in the adjoining sections of New Jersey and Delaware this morning. This region escaped the blizzard which swirled over the western and northern ends of the State, but a heavy storm bringing a rainfall of more than an inch in 24 hours and accompanied by gales with a velocity of 40-miles an hour hampered traffic during the week-end. Atlantic City reported a 54-mile an hour wind.

The storm subsided, however, late Sunday with the drop in temperatures and not much damage was reported in its wake beyond the tie-up of shipping
on the Delaware for several hours Sunday.

Snow swirled through most of Central Pennsylvania and local high wind centers developed by the storm caused some property damage at Halifax, New Cumberland and near Harrisburg.

At Halifax, 25 telephone poles were blown down, several trees were uprooted and a house and a barn were unroofed. At New Cumberland, wind toppled two chimneys and tore the tin roof from a dwelling. Four plate glass windows were blown out of an automobile showroom in Harrisburg.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Important Wedding of Social Season Occurs at Warwick
and Is Attended by 400 Guests —Auto Found Parked on Newtown Street for Nine Months Without Borough Authorities Knowing It — Butler to Speak at Perkasio
In the Near Future.

Four-hundred guests from Pennsylvania and New Jersey attended the most important wedding of the social season in central Bucks county Saturday evening in the historic Neshaminy Presbyterian Church of Warwick.
Miss Ethel Carrell Hobensack, daughter of Mrs. B. Frank Hobensack, of Doylestown, became the bride of Cyrus Linton Blackfan, son of Mr. and Mrs.
John Blackfan, of Cresco, Monroe county, formerly of Newtown, Bucks county.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ernest Vanden Bosch, minister of the church, and a reception followed at the Doylestown Country Club
after which Mr. and Mrs. Blackfan left by motor on a wedding trip to Florida.

The bridegroom, a prominent engineer, is a graduate of Lafayette College where he was a star basketball player at one time. The bride attended Hood College, Maryland.

Mrs. Harry S. Hobensack and Mrs.
Wilkins Carlie Hobensack, of Doyle-town, were the matrons of honor
while the bridesmaids included Miss Mary S. Moyer, of Mount Joy, Pa., Miss Margaret McWhatten, of Ivyland, and Mrs. Joseph H. Penrose, of Neshaminy,
Pa. The flower girls were Kathryn
Mary Hobensack and Doris Jane Hobensack, of Doylestown.

Mr. Blackfan was attended by Mark
H. Book, of Germantown, and the ushers were Haydn J. Proctor, of Ashbury Park, N. J., M. Howard Orpen, of Llanerch, Harry S. Hobensack, of Doylestown, and Judge Wilkins Carlie Hobensack, of Doylestown.

Notwithstanding the traffic regulations of Newtown borough, it was developed at a session of Borough Council that an automobile has stood in the street on South Lincoln avenue for nearly nine months. In that time it has never been moved.

This open air garage was discovered
when borough workmen were raising a fire plug near the parked car.
Commissioner Craig reported placing stone on several streets and keeping the gutters and culverts cleared.

RAID CRESCENT CLUB AT HAUNTED LANE, CROYDON

Week-End Party Broken Up
When Russo and State Police Walk In

ALL HELD UNDER BAIL

A party of beer drinkers was taken into custody early Saturday evening
when Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo and State Police from Morrisville raided the Crescent Club on Haunted Lane, Bristol Township.

The group, all men, had settled down for a week-end party all to themselves. They had stocked up with six half barrels of beer in addition to the one which was found on tap at the time of the raid.

Troopers Dean and Christ assisted Russo and the men taken into custody
all claimed to be members of the club, but none claimed to be proprietor of the place. One of the men is a member of the Philadelphia police department.

The men arrested were brought to the Municipal Building and given a hearing before Justice Laughlin and each was held in $500 bail for a further hearing on March 19th.

It was brought out at the hearing that complaints have been made about the actions of the men about the club premises and that the club had been cautioned a week ago.

Those arrested gave their names as follows:

George Hiling, 63, 2018 Sally avenue,
Philadelphia; Thomas Bryan, 53, 655
Wister street, Philadelphia; Harry Zach, 56, 1045 East Spencer street, Philadelphia; Harry Grabbie, 50, 4722
North Fifteenth street, Philadelphia;
William Funston, 55, 6414 Orgyle
street, Philadelphia; Martin Burkhardt, 53, 530 Duncan avenue, Philadelphia.

Hillside Inn, on the Lincoln Highway, near City Line, was also raided,
but nothing was found.

S. S. CLASS MEETING

Ladies' Bible Class, No. 4, of the Bristol M. E. Sunday School, will hold its monthly meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Nellie Stackhouse, Swain street.

LADIES AID TO MEET

Ladies' Aid Society of the Harriman
M. E. Church has arranged for a meeting at the home of Mrs. William Barn-field, Monroe street, tomorrow evening.
All members who can possibly do so
are asked to attend.

South Chancellor street having been sold and taxes having been in arrears for several years, a check representing a compromise on the amount of taxes due was presented. A discussion arose as to the proper amount of the taxes
and the matter was referred to William R. Stuckert, borough solicitor.

It was decided to proceed with the erection of an addition to the fire house in order to properly house the equipment.

The councilmen received a complaint of the condition of the pavement
on the north side of Penn street from Lincoln avenue to Chancellor street.
That portion alongside the public parks the borough will repair and the property owners of the remainder will be notified to do likewise. Notice was also directed to be sent to a property owner on State street in the main business section to place his curb in proper order.

NEW APPRAISEMENT OF PROPERTY IN COUNTY

Announcement Made by Commissioners That Work is About Completed

APPEAL DAYS LISTED

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 9.—New appraisement of all Bucks county property for the purpose of fixing a new assessment for taxation purposes is about completed, it was announced today at the office of the Bucks County Commissioners.

The new assessment, it is estimated,
will increase the revenue of the county approximately $30,000, so that the loss of income from the decrease of one-half mill in the county tax rate
that was announced two weeks ago,
which amounts to $40,000 annually,
will be but approximately $10,000 a year.

For a number of years the need of equalizing the property valuations in Bucks county was keenly felt. The County Commissioners employed three appraisers, two representing the county-at-large and a third man who served was selected from each district to work with the other two appraisers.

From the figures turned in by the appraisers the Commissioners compared the figures of the regular triennial assessment and fixed the assessment of every property. The new 1931 assessment to be made in April this year will be based on the new appraisement.

All the valuations have been equalized by the members of the Board of Revision and in most instances the figures of the appraisal committee were used in adjusting the assessment.

The appeal days from the new assessment have been announced so that persons desiring to appeal from the assessment can voice their contentions
before the Board of Commissioners.
The appeal dates are as follows: Monday, May 4, at the County Commissioners' office, Doylestown; May 5, at the Brick Hotel, Newtown; May 6, at Tranger's Hotel, Ferndale; May 7, at the Bush House, Quakertown; May 8,
at the Municipal Building, Bristol.

Changes have been made in many of the appraisements. Some have been decreased but more have been increased. Others, it is said, have remained the same, where the appraisement was thought satisfactory.

In most instances the boroughs,
townships and school districts have not been fixing their tax rate until after the appeal day protests have been heard and acted on by the Commissioners. In some instances the borough authorities have made inquiry about the new assessments and are fixing their borough and school tax rates accordingly. In a number of instances it is believed the borough taxes and school taxes will be reduced while in other cases the rates may remain the same. The new assessment however, will mean a considerable increase in road, school and borough tax income.

It is possible to appeal from the assessment only, it was pointed out yesterday. Many people unacquainted with the operation of the tax system in the county, are of the opinion that an appeal made direct to the school board, Borough Council or the road supervisors is all that is necessary. The appeal must be made on the stated appeal days to the County Commissioners, who have the power to reassess and make adjustments.

"We have every reason to believe that the reassessment will meet with approval in general," said a member of the Board of County Commissioners yesterday. "There are many people who do not understand that many previous assessments were not fair, whereas the new assessment is based on a policy that is 100 percent fair.
There may have been mistakes made
and that is why we have the appeal days."

dents will put on a play which was given in Philadelphia two months ago,

at Court on Surety
Charge

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 9.—The three girls arrested in connection with strike disorders at Bristol and who were given a hearing before Justice Irvine M. James here this morning, were discharged but directed to pay
the costs of the case.

Those who stood trial were:
Helen Snyder, 802 Beaver street,
Bristol.

Florence Nocito, 219 Franklin street,
Bristol.

Rachel Claiborn, 325 Grand avenue,
Bristol.

Paul Arnold, Croydon, who was arrested at the same time that the three girls were taken into custody on warrants issued from Doylestown, was held under $300 bail to answer to the charge of surety of the peace at the next term of court. The charge against the girls was assault and battery.

The prosecutrix in the case against
the girls was Winifred McClefferty, 367 Buckley street, Bristol.

Mrs. Mamie Hughes, Croydon, was
the prosecutrix in the case against Arnold.

Miss McClefferty on the stand testified that she was employed at the Blue Moon hosiery plant, Croydon, and that she was approached by Helen Snyder and asked to sign a paper, joining the union. The witness stated that she was told that if she "didn't sign the paper she wouldn't be fit to go home to her mother." She also said that Mrs. Snyder grabbed her and said: "

URGENT CAUTION

After Congress passed the veterans' loan bill over his veto, President Hoover personally interested himself in speeding up the machinery that no former service man actually in want may suffer hardships due to unnecessary delay in negotiating a loan on his adjusted compensation insurance. The fact that the president was not in favor of the law will not make him lax in its enforcement.

While hundreds of thousands of veterans have already applied for loans up to the new legal limit, there are many others, not now in actual want, who will not borrow until some future misfortune overtakes them or will wait until the insurance becomes due.

Veterans' organizations are cautioning their members to "go easy." They are rushing through the loan applications of the jobless, but discouraging others from thus unnecessarily reducing their insurance protection. The borrower also assumes an interest burden and an obligation to repay the loan.

Those veterans who dissipate their bonus impose a burden upon the Federal Treasury and deprive themselves and their dependents of protection. Those who are wise will seek loans only in case of dire necessity and as a last resort, for they will be spending the principal of a sound investment which if left untouched will increase in value.

DEPLETED STOCKS

Real reassurance for the unemployed, industry and business is contained in the news that for the first time since the business depression set in there is a shortage of a number of manufactured products, some of the largest producers reporting shortages.

Just as overproduction means idle workers, curtailed production and falling prices, underproduction means busy workers, reopening of factories and rising prices. Stability depends upon a balance between production and consumption.

This clearing of the economic horizon will be aided by the satisfying of installment contracts entered into a year ago and by the veterans' loans. Both should bring increased spending along the line.

When this barossa is at an end the surplus stocks of goods largely responsible for the unemployment will have been exhausted and the way opened for industry to make a new start. What it does with that opportunity will largely determine how long the next wave of prosperity will sweep on before piling upon the shoals of overproduction.

Consumers who have been waiting for prices to reach bottom are buying now, in the belief that prices have reached bottom and are due for a swing upward. Further reduction of inventories will make inevitable an about-face in the commodity index.

We have been in hopes that Mr. Edison or his successor would do something along the line of a non-breakable toaster cord.

Wall Street isn't original. The Puritan authorities made the little fellows suffer in stocks, too.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

ITEMS OF INTEREST AS CLIPPED FROM NEWSPAPER FILES

Feb. 19, 1867—Rev. Joshua Turner, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died today.

April 2, 1868—Chester Sturdevant died today.

April 9, 1868—Funeral of Lewis P. Kinsey occurred today.

July 20, 1869—William K. Kelly's foundry on Wood street was burned tonight. The wind carried the sparks up Wood street, setting fire to the roofs of the School House and the Methodist Church. The fire was extinguished with little damage.

June 3, 1870—Samuel Cabene died today.

Aug. 10, 1870—The home of Charles Johns on Pond street was struck by lightning today and badly burned.

Nov. 4, 1870—William Early, proprietor of the Railroad Hotel, on Mill street, died today.

The "Sunday Times Advertiser" Trenton, N. J., recently published the following:

There has lately come to hand another reminder of the industry of certain of our citizens in this vicinity in historical research which has brought to light a vast amount of information that either supplements or corrects common knowledge of the past. Colonel Henry D. Paxson has for years been prominent in patient investigation, chiefly on the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware. He has traced the revolutionary routes and familiarized us with sites connected with movements of Washington's army, notably in relation to the Battles of Trenton; his monographs, which have been accompanied with maps and illustrations, display earnestness and enthusiasm in a patriotic cause. Another of Colonel Paxson's contributions to historical lore is his "Where Pennsylvania History Began" or "Sketch and Map of A Trip from Philadelphia to Tinicum Island Delaware County, Pennsylvania," the pertinence of which is that it was on this island that the Swedes founded the first permanent colony, 39 years before the coming of William Penn, contrary to the acceptance by elementary textbooks of Penn as the pioneer in the foundation of the great commonwealth named in his honor.

The study in question comes appropriately from Colonel Paxson as president of The Swedish Colonial Society, and the result has met with high appreciation from Swedish royalty which has been expressed by official decoration of the scholarly author. The work was prepared as a feature of the Sesqui-Centennial celebration of 1926 and reflects the painstaking care with which Colonel Paxson carries on all his literary labors. At present, by the way, he is giving much time and thought to the direction of the scheme of restoration of historic places about Washington Crossing, Pa., which are going in the near future to loom as some of America's most captivating shrines for students of revolutionary events.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The murder of Baroness von Wiese at Eagle's Nest stirred the town of Kingcliffe. Walter Vance, Assistant Chief of Police, is in charge of the investigation, aided by his fiancée, "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter. A note, written by the Baroness, is found near the body. Bim recalls seeing the Baroness slip the butler a piece of paper, which he denies. Suspicion is cast on Mary Frost, whose husband, Ted, had flitted with the Baroness. Mary's shawl is found wrapped around the body. Mary claims she was unable to locate the shawl and left with Ted. It develops she returned later for the shawl. Complications arise when it is learned that Laura Allan had borrowed the shawl. Emily Hardy's maid heard the Baroness quarrel with her maid. Bim wonders about the wounds on the head and arm of the Baroness' maid. The jewels of the Baroness have been stolen. Laura says she saw Mary entering the garden wearing her shawl. Bim finds a stone from a man's ring on the Summer house path. Laura denies wearing the shawl. Bim learns from the gardener that Bunny Baird was entertaining a lady in his bungalow. Bob Trent, gassed war veteran, tells the police the Baroness insulted his wife. Mrs. Trent is fear-stricken.

CHAPTER XVI

BETWEEN the Sheriff and the Assistant Chief of Police, with a hand of each beneath her arms to help her up the steep incline of Lowland Drive, Bim told of her encounter with Terrance O'Toole and his story about Bunny Baird.

"He was sure the shadow beside Bunny's on the window blind was a woman's," she finished. "And he felt terrible because he couldn't find out whose."

They laughed at the old fellow's flare for scandal but admitted that they, too, would be interested in knowing the identity of the woman who kept after-midnight trysts with the artist.

Likes and Dislikes

"Something odd about it," Walter observed, "For no one's ever seen Baird look at anyone but that frozen-faced Allan girl."

"You don't like Laura Allan, do you?"

"Who does except Baird?"

"We-I-I. She's not a person you can get really close to but she's popular."

"Is she, Bim? You mean she hangs out with the Pine Hill gang but I'll bet even they would just as soon she picked on someone else. Em Hardy is one of those who wants her house filled and who it's filled with doesn't cut much ice just so there's plenty around to lap her liquor and talk their heads off."

"But Laura doesn't drink and she surely doesn't do any very heavy talking."

"Huh; afraid she'll tip her hand, is she?"

Bim regarded him in a puzzled way. "I've never heard you razz a woman before, sweet thing. What's the cause?"

"No cause and I'm not razzing. The Allan sort scares me that's all, a woman with everything she's got messing around."

"She doesn't mess around, Wally. What in the world do you mean?"

But Walter muttered "Forget it" and looked grim. Reynolds, too, looked grim; both men wore the expression Bim had come to associate with that certain stubborn silence men accord women of whom they disapprove—the silence which is like a challenge to other women.

No Opportunity

Nevertheless she had no further opportunity to pry for they had left Lowland Drive for the narrower, private roadway at the right which led to a pine woodland; and they now passed beneath tall, greenblack trees which sighed dreamily in the mountain wind, and so into a bit of cleared space before a squat stone bungalow.

As they stepped upon the wide veranda littered with miniature tables and magazines and ash trays, they could see, through the glassed-in northeast room, the tall, spare figure of Bunny Baird before an easel. He wore a wrinkled, paint-smeared smock and when he heard their step he came out, wiping his hands on the smock and staring with a rather absent expression in his nice, humorous eyes.

"Law and order," he remarked whimsically, offering an almost clean hand to Reynolds and to Walter, "and beauty," he added, greeting Bim. "What more could any man desire? Do you prefer the great outdoors to the fumes of turpentine? Sit here if you do and I'll rustle a drink."

"For a sheriff and a cop?" Bim giggled.

"Oh, it'll be soft. Near beer and pretzels for atmosphere." He brought bottles and glasses on a tray, his nice eyes smiling, rambling on in his gentle voice. "Now, then," as he finished the demands of easy hospitality, "How does Mahomet like the mountain?"

They liked it and said so. "But Mahomet brings bad tidings," Walter confessed.

The artist glanced up quickly and shrugged. "So?" "I was ever thus. Speak on, churl."

"The Baroness was murdered last night, Baird."

Bunny Baird placed his glass on a nearby table, all his lightness falling away. "Murdered—gosh! But—but it's unthinkable! Who—"

"We're working on that."

"I see," The artist relaxed, though horror remained in his face. "She was the most beautiful woman—perfect. I've an aversion for waste; for seeing perfection destroyed. Violent death—"

"We'd appreciate anything you can tell us," Walter suggested. "About the evening—you understand."

"Of course. There isn't much. She—the Baroness—spoke to me a minute or two about a piece of my work she'd seen in Paris; it was a landscape I'd done on the Midi that happened to catch her fancy."

That, I believe, was after Hardy and the Baron had gone in, just before the group on the terrace broke up. Mrs. Hardy came out, as I recall, and we didn't finish the conversation."

"Did you miss the Baroness from the party soon afterward?"

"Miss her? Oh, I see what you mean. I believe she went into the house about then and I didn't see her again. I saw—that is, Miss Allan, wished to bid her good night and we hung around a few minutes expecting her back but she didn't come and so we didn't wait. The Trents were just ahead of us and Mary and Ted Frost had been gone some time."

"You didn't see either of the Frosts as you were leaving?"

"No; as I say, they'd left before, probably an hour earlier."

"I see. What time was it when you left?"

Baird considered a moment and fixed the time at about half-past eleven. "Miss Allan brought me up to the beginning of my drive on her way home."

"You turned in at once?"

"But it wasn't midnight yet!" Baird smiled at the notion of wasting the night in sleep. "I'm rather an owl, you know. Like to read and smoke in the still dark up here. I'm around till almost morning as a rule."

Sealed Lips

Walter nodded understandingly. "You had a visitor last night." He made it a statement instead of a question and the artist repeated his words in a tone of polite inquiry. "A visitor?" but Bim saw the nice eyes go opaque and a sudden hardening about the muscles of his jaw.

"Yes; a woman," Walter went on implacably. "At two this morning."

"You seem to know," drawled Bunny Baird. "So why ask me?"

"I am asking, though. Who was the woman?"

"I shall not tell you that," the other man replied

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK *means to Camel Smokers**

COMPARE a package of Camels with any other cigarette and note the difference in the technique of packing.

Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point.

We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment.

It means, for instance, that evaporation is checked and that Salt Lake City can now have as good Camels as Winston-Salem.

While Camels are made of a blend of the choicest Turkish and mellowest domestic tobaccos, it is highly important, if you are to get full benefit of this quality, that these cigarettes come to you with their natural moisture content still intact

The Humidor Pack insures that. It prevents the fine tobaccos of Camels from drying out and losing any of their delightful flavor.

Aside from cheap tobacco, two factors in a cigarette can mar the smoker's pleasure:

Fine particles of peppery dust if left in the tobacco by inefficient cleaning methods sting and irritate delicate throat membrane.

Dry tobacco, robbed of its natural moisture by scorching or by evaporation gives off a hot smoke that burns the throat with every inhalation.

We take every precaution against these factors here at Winston-Salem.

A special vacuum cleaning apparatus removes dust

and now the new Humidor Pack prevents dryness.

Check the difference yourself

It is a very simple matter to check the difference between Humidor Packed Camels and ordinary dry cigarettes.

First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco.

If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference.

The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker.

As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended.

But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat.

If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means.

But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store.

Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

APOLLO, Mar. 9.—Advancing age has not dimmed the devotional enthusiasm of Mrs. Mary J. Jackson, known to all residents as "Aunt Mary."

LANCASTER, Mar. 9.—Trappers in Lancaster added approximately $100,000 to their incomes from fur-bearing animals during the 1930-31 trapping season, according to figures compiled by local furriers.

As a whole, the season in Lancaster was good for the trappers. About a fifty percent of the normal yield of muskrat pelts was reported in the county, with prices ranging from 40 cents early in the season to one dollar at the close for prime pelts. Skunk held its own during the season, trappers reported, with prices steady to high.

Possums yielded a high quality skin this season, with prices ranging as high as $1.10 per single pelt, top price for several years in the region.

Catch of foxes was about 25 percent above normal with prices sharply lower than in average years.

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 9.—A distinguished list of patrons, including President Hoover and the governors of Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, and the two Senators from Pennsylvania, is being sought for the 250th anniversary celebration of the landing of William Penn.

John Frederick Lewis, chairman of the general committee and president of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, has outlined the preliminary organization groundwork. Lewis announced that Gov. Gifford Pinchot has accepted the position of patron, while Mayor Harry Mackey will be honorary patron of the celebration.

SCRANTON, Mar. 9.—Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York and Democratic candidate for president in 1928, will come here April 19 to inspect the anthracite coal fields and meet coal company executives.

The proceeds will go 100 percent to charity, 50 per cent to local and 50 per cent to national.

The local service clubs, the Kiwanis Club of Sellersville and the Rotarians of Perkaskie, are sponsoring the movement.

Burgess, Russell Whitmer, Sellersville, and William Rosenberger, Perkaskie, secretaries of the respective clubs, were authorized to complete the plans.

A date in March was tentatively decided upon, but it was learned that the General could not be there in March, but promised definitely to be in Perkaskie "some time in April."

The Girl With a Good Job Today Thinks Twice Before Giving It Up for Love, Writes Winifred Black, Replying to a Man Who's "Mad" at Women Who Work

By WINIFRED BLACK

JOHN ALEXANDER LIVINGSTON is mad at all women who work for a living.

Mr. Livingston took time in his busy life to write to me about it.

Single women who work for a living are bad enough, says Mr. Livingston. They take jobs away from single men and how can single men get married if they haven't any jobs?

And how can a normal man live a sane, happy, well-balanced life unless he's married?

He can not! Says Mr. Alexander.

And the married women who work, dear, dear it's really too bad about them, Mr. Livingston says. They are taking the bread out of the mouths of single women and out of the mouths of married women and their children, and out of the mouths of married men and single men, too.

Dear me, what voracious appetites these married women who work must have, mustn't they?

Well now, Mr. Livingston, of course we all agree that in times when jobs are scarce no woman who can afford to live without working ought to go downtown and work, and thereby keep some woman who has no one to support her out of a job.

But how about the married woman who's husband is out of a job, Mr. Livingston? Shall she sit down in her bare little flat and suffer, she and her children, yes and her husband, too, waiting for her, at the other end of the street?

Is it her duty to forget that she is hungry and stop wishing her children were warm and well fed, just to please Mr. Livingston and others who love to expound vaguely generous ideas about living and let live?

Marriage is becoming more or less unpopular with the average woman who works, anyhow. A girl with a good job and a good salary thinks twice before she gives up her job and her salary and goes home to two rooms and a semi-public bathroom and lives on delicatessen food, just because she's so desperately in love that she simply can't get along another minute without having her own particular Romeo to have and to hold and to love, cherish, and obey for the rest of what she is sometimes hopeful enough to consider her natural life?

Love is all very well—in its way—but after all food and clothes and new shoes and parties, and moving-picture tickets appear to have their place in life, too.

When John succeeds in persuading Emma to leave the little pretty flat where she and three other girls live quite comfortably, thank you, on their joint salaries, and go home with him to a stuffy little apartment up three flights of stairs, and make herself believe that she just loves it, all for his sweet sake—it is time for John to consider himself a rather lucky young man.

Now if Mr. Livingston and his friends are going to tell Mary that she'll have to stay in that little dark apartment and go hungry if John happens to lose his job why matters may begin to seem a little complicated.

How do you feel about it, John? What do you think of it, Mary? Honest and truly, straight from the shoulder now, cards on the table.

"No fooling."

Helpful Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE: I am a regular and interested reader of your wonderful advice column.

Just tonight I read the letter of "A REAL FELLOW." I had to write something right away to let this young man know that you certainly were right when you told him there were still lots of nice girls left in this great wide world. I have been disgusted for such a long time but his letter has given me a little encouragement.

It is just wonderful to think that there are boys left who think of a goal in life more than they do of a good time.

I know it is against Nancy Lee's rules to divulge names or addresses of writers but who knows, "Real Fellow," we may meet some day.

I am not quite 19 years of age. I like to dance and go to parties but don't go often because I don't meet the right kind of boys there. And what's more, "Real Fellow," I am good looking. So cheer up and look in the right places for your "Angel." She may be just around the corner.

A BLONDE ANGEL: May I thank you and the many other kind correspondents who wrote such nice letters about "A Real Fellow." Yes, I agree with you, Angel. There are ever so many nice girls, but, like all good things, they require searching for. Both you and Real Fellow will find that by clinging to ideals, you will not founder in the sea of life. Good luck to you and lots of happiness.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I am 22 years of age. For the last six months I have been keeping company with a young man, who is 19 years of age. I go out with other friends, but not as regular as with this one.

Do you think I should continue giving him dates when he calls and asks for them?

I enjoy his company, and I am sure he enjoys mine or he would not ask me to go as often as he does.

Thanking you in advance for your kind advice, I am,

PUZZLED.

PUZZLED.—Surely by this time you must have some inkling as to the sentiments of the young man. I do not think that, unless there is some kind of an understanding, you should confine yourself to his attentions. Perhaps a little discreet competition might help matters a trifle. Don't let the man think that you are just sitting and praying for his invitation. It is very convenient to know that a nice girl is waiting to go out whenever asked to do so, and that is often as far as an affair goes.

Drive a Twin-Ignition NASH

—It's a new experience!

ONE of the chief reasons for the flashing acceleration and smooth speed and power of Nash Eight-80 and Eight-90 models is aircraft-type Twin-Ignition. In each cylinder, two spark plugs placed opposite each other, fire at precisely the same instant. The highly compressed gas ignites at two points. It is burned more quickly, efficiently. The result:—A more powerful explosion—instant responsiveness—notable gasoline economy. The moment you step on the accelerator, you will realize the important difference Twin-Ignition makes. Let's go for a ride together—soon.

the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers from interfering with and intimidating employees of the mills.

It is believed that it is the intention of the Court to award damages in these instances against the defendants if they are properly identified as connected with the outrages. The hearing, which was held in Court of Common Pleas No. 4, was continued under an "armistice" until today at 3 p. m.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper, counsel for the Apex mills, declared that while the employees at the Apex are satisfied with their hours, wages and working conditions, such pressure was being brought by the union that it could only be a question of time until these employees "crack" and the union will have accomplished its purpose, "it not in unionizing the mill, then in ruining its business."

Alexander M. Haig and Michael Francis Doyle, for the defendants, denounced the "yellow dog" contract, which they claimed all employees at the Apex were forced to sign. Under this contract the employees agree not to join the hosiery union. "A strike is justified to void such a contract, which is signed under force," said Mr. Haig. "No court decision has ever been rendered on the legality of such a contract."

William Mayer, president of the Apex company, testified that his employees were being paid wages equal to or better than the union scale. He admitted that private detectives had been employed, but claimed that this was done merely for the protection of the workers. He denied that the company had caused the arrest of any strikers.

J. Elwood Struve, general manager of the mills, said that no complaint had been received from any of the 2000 men and women employees regarding wages, hours or conditions of work. Cross-examination on the question of wages was interrupted by Judge Finletter, who reminded counsel that the question before the court was one of law and order and not of economics.

"If the employees in the Apex mills are being attacked by striking union workers through verbal argument, the defendants are within their rights," he said. "But if they are being attacked by means of threats, force and violence, we will stop it."

Police Inspector Ernest R. Jones told of a near-riot at the mill on February 16, the day the strike was called. About 5000 persons gathered at the mill about 5 o'clock, he said, and the police had difficulty in protecting the workers as they left the premises.

Mrs. James McIlvaine, of Buckley street, was a visitor last week of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Neill, of West Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Forwood, of 274 McKinley street, were Sunday guests of relatives in Reading.

About 75 per cent. of those in the crowd, he declared, wore arm bands bearing the word "striker."

Several employees of the mill then described attacks on their homes, during which windows and doors were smashed and furniture damaged.

The proceedings were shortened by an agreement between counsel that thirty employees of the mill, if called to testify, would declare they had been accosted by persons who urged them to join the strike. Ten of these would state that they had suffered physical violence. Mr. Haig, however, stipulated that these witnesses would admit that they did not know if the persons who accosted them were strikers.

Court then adjourned until today.

INJUNCTIONS

The Delaware River Coach Company, rendering public transportation service between Philadelphia City Line and Trenton, has been forced to appeal to the courts for protection from liberal and damaging jitney competition.

In Doylestown, the county court has issued injunctions enjoining five jitney drivers from further interfering with the business of the coach company.

The coach company sought, by friendly means, to prevail on the jitney drivers to give up their illegal competition.

They defied the law, and the coach company could take no other course than appeal to the courts for protection. This it is afforded by the issuance of the injunctions.

Jitney competition has so affected the earnings of the buses and trolleys that were it to be continued the business would be destroyed. Our employees would have been thrown out of work, and the public would have suffered through destruction of the regular, reliable, dependable bus and trolley service.

We are not a "big company blitting at little fellows." We are a little company, rendering an accommodation service under the laws of the State, seeking to give the public the best kind of service within our power. To continue to do so we are forced to protect ourselves and our passengers who depend on our service.

Jitney competition is illegal and an infringement on our rights.

Accordingly, the court has issued injunctions restraining the jitney drivers from further doing business.

SPORTS

WRESTLING BOUTS ARE BOOKED FOR BURLINGTON

Sport fans in this vicinity will have an opportunity of seeing a number of the big mat men who earn their living tossing one another hither and yon, committing mayhem and other gentle arts that go under the name of the ancient Greek sport, wrestling, at the Burlington Armory on Monday evening.

Promoter Gus Voss has arranged a program that should go a long way to make the sport popular in this section. When Carlos Henriquez, champion of Spain, meets Mike Yanka, husky Ukrainian, in the feature bout, these two big boys should send the fans home talking to themselves.

The rest of the card brings together Tony Rocco of Italy and Demetri Demetri of Russia; Cleve Mussino, Italy's man with the perfect figure, tackles Cyclone Peters, of Sweden; Charles West, Austria, will wrestle Charly Metros, the clever Greek, in the opening bout.

The promoter says: "This show will please the wrestling fans around here so much that they will want more." He also added that he would get the best possible programs for his future shows.

BRISTOL HIGH BOY GETS SPORTSMANSHIP AWARD

The award for the best sportsmanship shown throughout the basketball tournament conducted Saturday by the Student Council of Morrisville High School in the Robert Morris gymnasium at Morrisville, went to "Pank" Fine, of Bristol.

Doylestown High School won both trophies in the first Quadruple-County Junior Varsity and Junior High School basketball tournament.

Doylestown won the junior high school divisional cup with little effort, rolling up a 23 to 5 score against Morrisville, the other finalist. In the junior varsity section, they also clicked against Pennington without unduly exerting themselves. The score was 25 to 7.

In the foul shooting contest, Jack Scullin, a member of the Morrisville Jay Vees, sank 21 out of 25 tries, outclassing all other entrants by a wide margin.

Waddington, Doylestown, won second place, and Shindle, of Allentown, N. J., was third. Pennington won the award for the best appearing team.

The combined efforts of Gerlack, Lavazere, and occasionally Waddington, were the main reasons in Doylestown's conquest over Pennington Central in the finals of the tournament. Lavazere was the soul of the Doylestown passing attack and defensive play and his outstanding work made it easy for Gerlack and Waddington, his team mates to play brilliant floor games and also register frequently in the scoring column.

Pennington came disastrously close to being shut out from the floor by the Gold and White and were badly off form in foul shooting.

In the junior high school play off, Doylestown also demonstrated their superiority and their 23 to 5 conquest does not half tell the story of the way they outclassed Morrisville. Their fast passing attack and offensive drive which broke before the Morrisville defense formed, had their opponents bewildered. The Gold and White jumped into a quick lead, scoring 11 points before the smaller Morrisville five broke into the scoring column. The score at the end of the first quarter was 13 to 1 in favor of Doylestown and continued in this fashion throughout the remainder of the contest.

Investigation of Utilities To Be Prime Interest

(Continued from Page One) to complete its work. Under the original Senate resolution creating the committee it was to report March 10, but hearings have been covering so much ground an extra month will be requested.

The House probes, chairman Moore estimated, will hold hearings for about three weeks and utilize another compiling their report.

Although 21 bills are ready for final passage in both houses tonight, none of them are very "heavy." The scheduled major bills of the session have not yet been introduced, and the more important of those already presented are still buried deep in committee.

House measures ready for final action tonight carry deficiency appropriations for the Eastern State Penitentiary, Hazleton State Hospital, The Department of Forests and Waters, and an appropriation for new buildings at State College.

Other lower chamber bills ready for passage include the Fitzgerald bill naming city treasurers of third class cities collectors of city and school taxes in city territorial limits; the Wall bill validating bonds issued or authorized for issue in agreement with provisions of the act regulating increasing indebtedness of municipalities; and the Storer joint resolution amending the Constitution to permit authorization of a $50,000,000 bond issue for veterans' bonuses.

Bills on the Senate calendar ready for passage include the Woodward measure for a constitutional amendment providing for consultation of city and county officers in Philadelphia; the Prince bill authorizing boroughs to appropriate moneys to certain hospitals; Senator Mansfield's measure requiring boards of revision to give notice of increases in valuation of property and of appeal days; the Harvey bill prohibiting carrying of loaded firearms in automobiles; and the Coyne bill for increasing maximum salaries of department heads in second class cities.

The Senate has ready for passage also two House bills, one authorizing cities of the first class to negotiate emergency loans during the present calendar year and another making unlawful the counterfeiting of transportation tokens or tickets.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE:

Will you please advise me? During Christmas I went with a boy whom I have known for a good while but have never gone with until lately. Now, Nancy Lee, I love him and he loves me, and he has proved this by asking me to marry him. He is a gentle man in every way, it seems to me. His one fault lies in drinking. He says he will quit and has asked my help.

He is several years older than I and I am still in high school. I told him I wished to finish school. He said I could finish and go to school anywhere I wanted to. He will make me an honest living, I know. But due to our difference in age, and my not having finished school, my folks object to our marriage. Nancy Lee, I have no mother to advise me and live with my married sister, about five years older than myself. But, Nancy Lee, I love him. I wonder if I should go ahead and marry him or not? BROKEN-HEARTED.

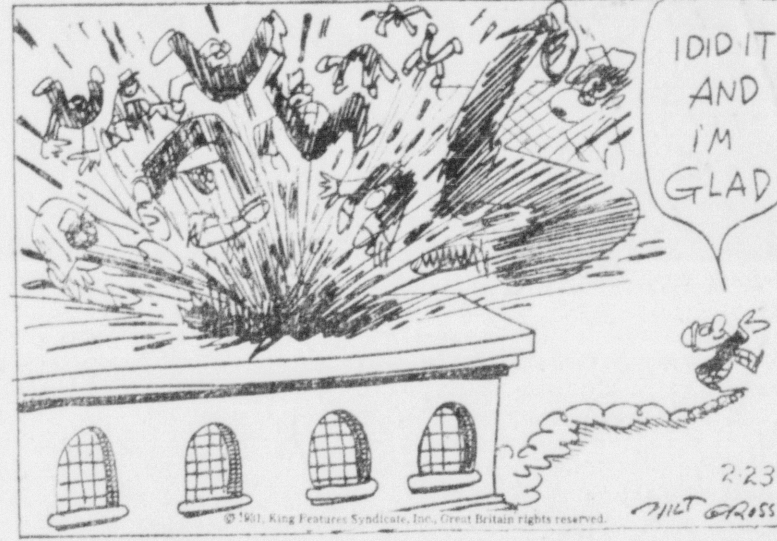

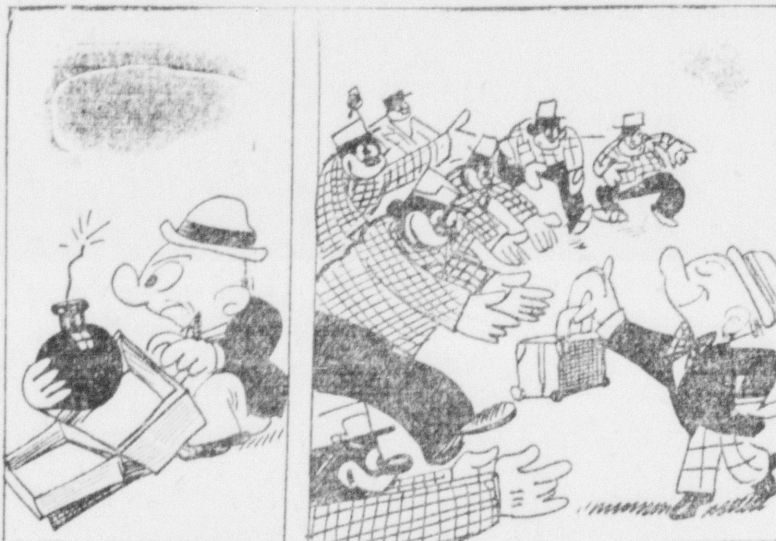

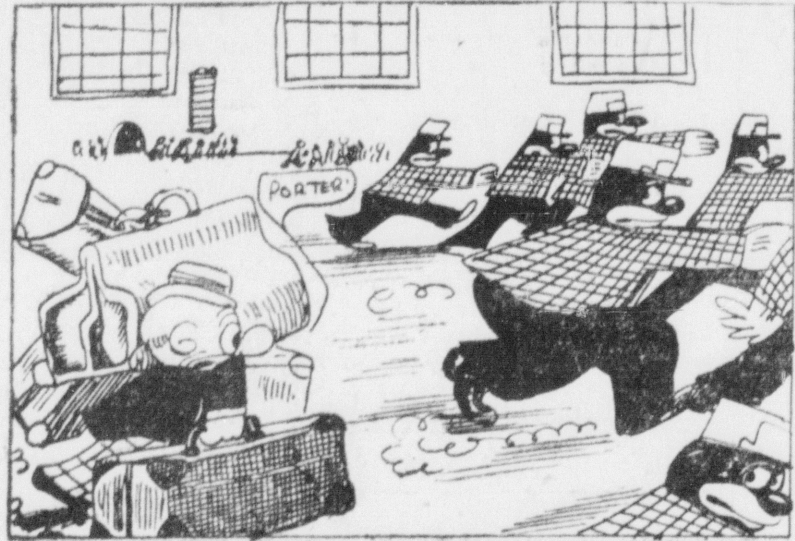

BROKEN-HEARTED: I only hope that your sister's action will have the desired effect. If the man really cares for you, he will put himself right out of your life or change his habits voluntarily. If he cared enough for you, he would quit himself. This is quite apart from the difference in your ages. When you are older and wiser you will know that reformation must come from within. A man must rediscover his self-respect and the rest follows. Mind you, I am not saying that men have not given up vices for love of a woman; many have. It is a question of the calibre of the man himself and how much the love of a fine woman means to him.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I am a girl in my early teens and have been going with a boy for three months. I like him very much and he seems to like me. Several evenings ago we had a quarrel over a silly question. In school he will not talk to me and yet he seems jealous when any other boy talks to me. Do you think he should speak first? He was wrong in the quarrel and he is very stubborn. Thanking you, I remain LONESOME LOU.

LONESOME LOU: You must learn to wait until a person responsible for a quarrel or disagreement has the decency to apologize. The stubborn persons are generally to be avoided, for they are generally very sensitive and "touchy," demanding from others the attention and behavior that they themselves never trouble to show. Be pleasant to the young man, not friendly, until he is gentlemanly enough to ask your pardon.

STATE NEWS

Mrs. Natale Caputo to Be Buried Here Tomorrow

Funeral will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Ortensia Caputo, wife of Natale Caputo, who died at her home, 27 Railroad avenue, yesterday, following a three-year illness. ## Why Commute?

Why travel back and forth to your employment, which is here in Bristol, when such desirable dwellings are to be obtained here at such reasonable rents? It will pay any individual to investigate!

Work Where You Live and Live Where You Work.

If you are employed in Bristol you should live here. It will be less expensive and there are numerous other advantages derived from making your home in the town where you are employed.

You will save many hours a year which are now spent in traveling and you will have more time with your family.

The saving in money will also be considerable. Add to that which you are now paying for rent the amount which you spend in traveling back and forth to your employment here. You'll be surprised at the total. Rent a house here at a moderate rental and bank the difference.

Houses.

Comfortable dwellings, well situated and at moderate rents are to be found in that portion of Bristol which is immediately adjacent to the P. R. R. passenger station.

These houses make ideal homes and consist of six rooms with bath.

Conveniences.

They are heated by hot-air furnaces with a direct pipe leading to every room. They are lighted with electricity and are equipped with sewer, municipal water and gas.

Each room is well lighted and yet the space devoted to windows is not excessive.

Front porches are another attractive feature as is also a small rear yard where children can play in safety away from the perils of traffic.

Houses such as these would rent for considerably more in any city, where the conveniences would not surpass those offered here.
